GLOBAL EQUITY STRATEGY

Global Equity Ranking

Justification

- US (S&P500): strong earnings report by major Tech/AI/Cloud companies and easing of economy through rate cuts.
- India (BSE Sensex): Strong EPS Expansions
- China (SSE): Great government support through improved policies and gains from technology sector.
- UK (FTSE): Value from sectors such as energy and banks.
- Germany (DAX): Prospects from manufacturing upcycling.
- Hong Kong (Hang Seng): Influenced by volatility links with China.
- Mexico (IPC) and Brazil (IBOVESPA): Moderate growth trajectory.

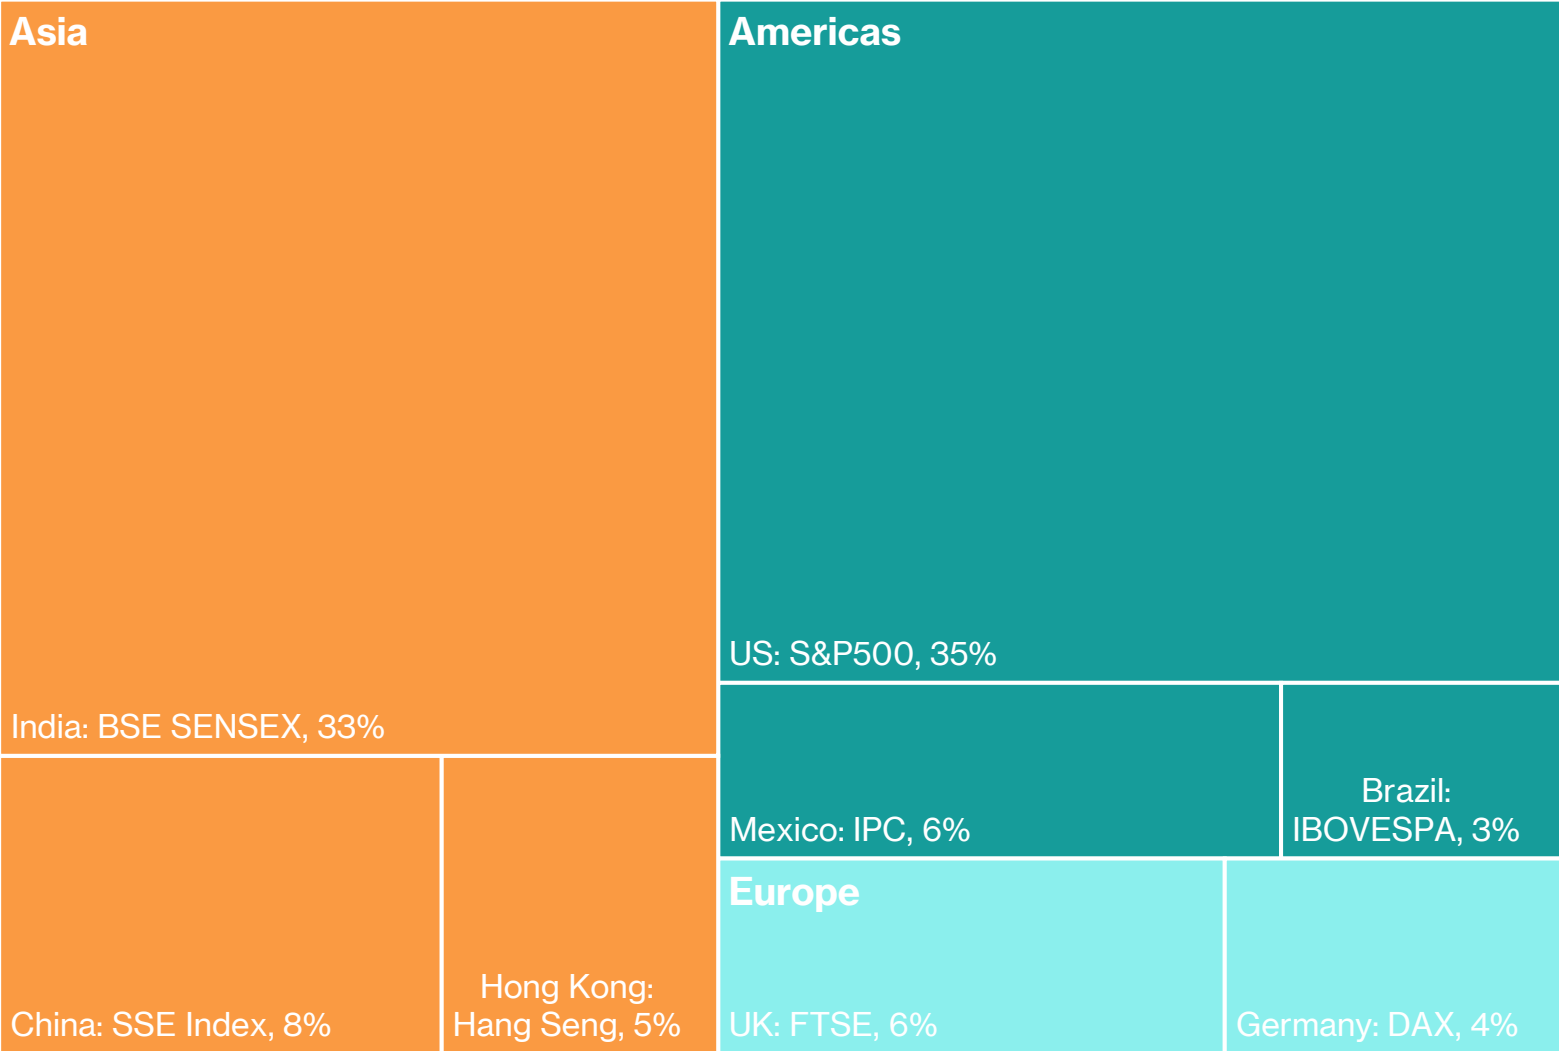

Justification

- US (S&P500): expected to grow moderately due to anticipated slow EPS growth.
- India (BSE Sensex): Supported by its position as the world's top country for structural economic growth with policy reforms leading to EPS expansions.
- China (SSE): Supported by the drive for long-term innovation and deep valuation.
- UK (FTSE) and Germany (DAX): Continued value orientation amid modest growth trajectory.
- Hong Kong (Hang Seng): Influenced by its high volatility nature.
- Mexico (IPC) and Brazil (IBOVESPA): Potential to perform well based on its favorable economic cycles and commodity pricing.

2026 Geographical Allocation - Indices

■ Americas ■ Europe ■ Asia

Summary of Allocations:

- U.S: S&P500: 35%
- India: Sensex 33%
- China: SSE 8%
- Mexico: IPC: 6%
- UK: FTSE 6%
- Hong Kong: Heng Seng 5%
- Germany: DAX 4%
- Brazil: IBOVESPA 3%

Justification for Short-term (1-year) Strategy:

- The U.S (S&P500) allocation supported by strong corporate earnings and strong technology sector.
- India (BSE SENSEX) supported by its high GDP growth and domestic demand momentum.
- China (SSE Index) is allocated 8% because of its economy is stabilizing along with a stable recovery in its manufacturing.
- To provide diversification, exposure and industrial growth, the rest of the allocations are distributed between Mexico, Brazil, the UK, and Germany.

2030 Geographical Allocation - Indices

■ Americas ■ Europe ■ Asia

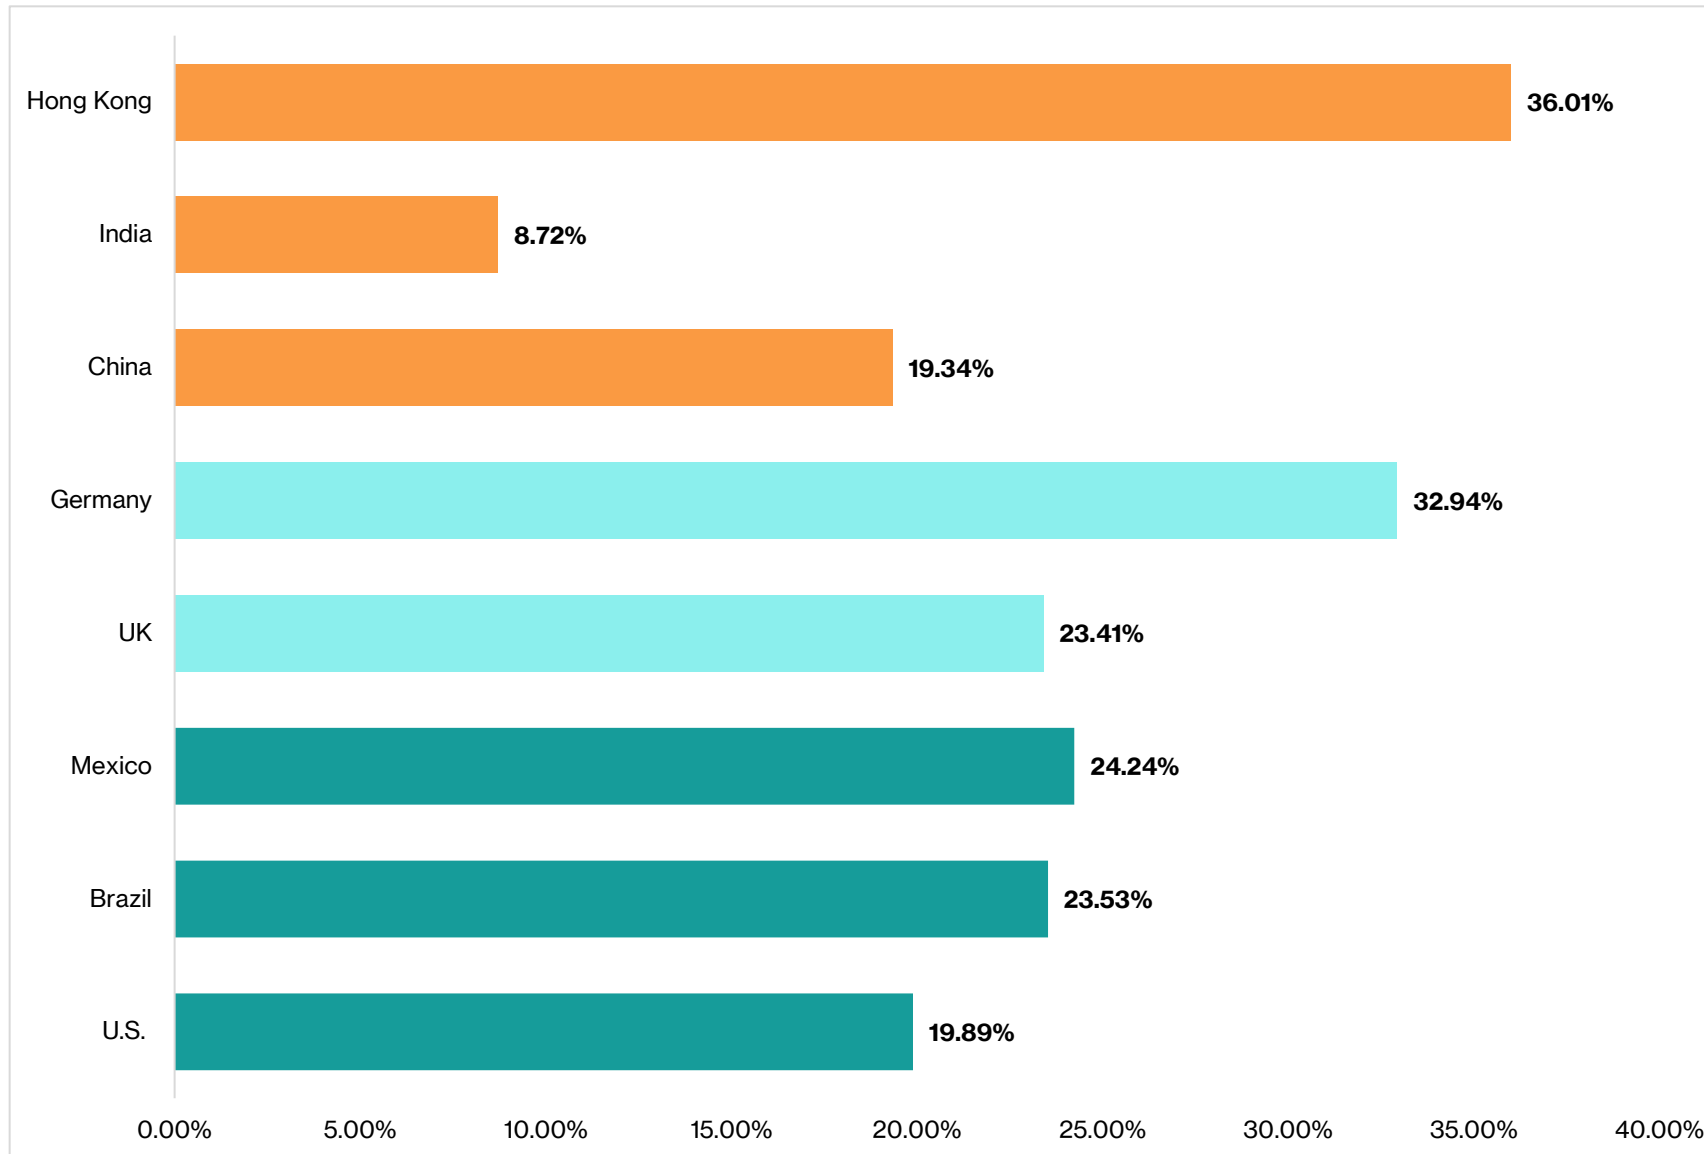

Summary of Allocations:

• India: Sensex	35%
• U.S: S&P500	20%
• China: SSE	18%
• UK: FTSE	8%
• Mexico: IPC:	7%
• Brazil: IBOVESPA	6%
• Germany: DAX	3%
• Hong Kong: Heng Seng	3%

Justification for Long-term (5-year) Strategy:

- The US decreases to 20% due to the expected outperformance of markets in the long term.
- India maintains a strong 35% weight, because of its growth potential and digital expansion in the tech sector.
- China sees a stable growth to 18% because of recovering sector and policy driven growth.
- Europe increased value opportunities and a strong dividend yield.
- Brazil and Mexico maintained their weights due to the nearshoring benefits of being near the US market.
- Hong Kong remained small at 3% due to exposure to financial and Chinese-linked sectors.

1 Year Historical Returns

- Hang Seng and DAX delivered the strongest return over the one-year period, each exceeding 30%.
- The S&P 500, SSE, FTSE, IPC and IBOVESPA delivered returns between 19% to 24% over the one-year period.
- SENSEX lagged over the period reporting 8.27%.
